

We have made it through the first month of 2024!

February has a history of being Utah's snowiest month; though it may feel like spring, don't tuck away the snow boots just yet.

February has loads in store for students and families. Support the Red Rocks gymnastics team at the Huntsman Center, spend a weekend in the snowy mountains with equipment rented from Campus Rec Services, or put on your fine arts enthusiast hats for three nights of the Banff Mountain Film Festival at Kingsbury Hall.

As always, our door (figuratively and virtually) is open. If you have any questions, concerns, or a fun story to share with us about your journey at the U, feel free to reach out to us at belong@utah.edu.

This is a robust student-focused opportunity to attend workshops, explore careers, build your resume or polish your personal image. CareerFest may only happen once a semester, but students can meet with a career coach or explore different careers that may pique their interest year round through Career Success.

- Dive into undergraduate research and grow your research skills
- Check out equipment from the Marriot Library; computers, calculators, cameras, video game consoles, and everything in between.

Campus Recreation runs dozens of off-campus tours and trips throughout the year; their spring trip calendar is open and accepting reservations. If that's not your speed, consider their equipment rental department for fun in the snow or be sure to take advantage of discount ski passes if that's your jam.
